

IOP 3.1 | JUDGES AND JUDICIAL STAFF

Thirteen judges serve on the Court. Each judge has up to three personal staff. Additionally the court has a central staff of attorneys who work pursuant to policies adopted by the court under the direction of the chief judge. The staff is composed of three units. One unit screens cases for jurisdiction and makes recommendations on original petitions and motions filed with the court. The second unit of the central staff primarily prepares substantive summaries on certain criminal and collateral criminal merits cases as directed by the chief judge pursuant to policies adopted by the court. The third unit is a legislatively authorized unit that specializes in preparing summaries and recommendations in workers' compensation cases.
